CK Construction Expanding at New Office Location

CK Construction continues to grow, and the company is expanding to a new office located at 500 Olde Worthington Road. This space creates capacity for CK's growth trajectory while offering an enhanced workplace environment.

Key features of the Olde Worthington Road office include more meeting space, a collaborative open-floor plan and natural lighting. Additionally, CK will have new dedicated spaces for training, learning and development. The new location was chosen to maintain proximity to CK's works department and mill shop, which remain at the Westerville Road location.

"This new space reflects where CK is headed," CEO Jim Negron said. "As we continue to grow, we are investing in a workplace that supports collaboration, well-being, and the way our teams work together. It gives us room to build opportunities for our people while strengthening the culture that makes CK successful."
